

Meg Stone has served as the Executive Director of IMPACT Boston since 2005. She was a member of the Massachusetts State Sexual Violence Prevention Team and was the recipient of a Visionary Voice award from the National Sexual Violence Resource Center. Meg has led the development of abuse prevention and safety training programs for schools, homeless shelters, rape crisis centers, disability service agencies and domestic violence organizations. She has developed and led de-escalation training programs for health care, human service, municipal government, and corporate workers across Massachusetts and nationally. Meg's writing has been published in the Washington Post, Boston Globe, Newsweek, Huffington Post, and other national and regional publications. Her first book will be published by Beacon Press in 2025.