

Jennifer Whyte is a Staff Officer with the Power Workers' Union (PWU). The PWU is one of the largest and most progressive unions in Ontario, Canada, representing over 22,000 members across 64 collective agreements within the energy sector.

Jennifer has been advocating on behalf of members for the PWU for over 23 years. Over the past 16 years, she has specialized in representing members in complex labour disputes and various mediation and arbitration processes. In more recent years, Jennifer has focused on representing members, primarily in the nuclear energy sector, at "no-counsel" mediation and arbitrations. No-counsel mediations and arbitrations have proven to be effective and timely solution orientated dispute resolution mechanisms for the PWU and their membership.

Prior to commencing her employment with the PWU, Jennifer served with the Canadian Armed Forces, including a peacekeeping deployment to Kosovo. Jennifer has completed various studies in Labour Relations and is currently pursuing a degree in Energy Management.
