

Tanya Venter is an Advocate of the High Court, an arbitrator and an internationally accredited mediator. She has 30 years of experience in dispute resolution. She has overseen large dispute resolution projects in multiparty environments, including the mining, construction, professional services, and insurance industries.

She is currently CEO of Tokiso Dispute Settlement, an accredited dispute resolution body in South Africa. In this role, she oversees a panel of 200 professional mediators, arbitrators and investigators.

Tanya has a special interest in discrimination and harassment matters, having mediated and adjudicated a wide range of such matters, particularly in the workplace.

She sits on several boards and is an honorary member of the South African Society of Labour Law.

